The company specializes in custom injection molding of ceramic and plastic parts and has been in continuous business for over twenty years. Owners wish to retire and have been concentrating their efforts on refining the exacting ceramic molding process in order to produce a highly efficient and competitive company capable of injection molding small ceramic parts with consistent delivery, quality and reduced costs. As a result, the firm is poised to take advantage of those efforts through increased marketing and sales efforts. The company recently signed an eight-year exclusive supply agreement with their largest customer, a firm doing business since 1971, an
