Based on a reputation for quality work, this well established company provides powder coating and industrial spray painting services to transportation manufacturers and other industries. This fully permitted, turn-key, facility has plenty of additional capacity and room for growth. With all of the hard to obtain Air Quality permits already in place and plenty of additional capacity for work, the acquisition of this company is well suited for a manufacturer looking for more control in their powder coating and painting quality and turnaround time. The existing long-term customer base also provides an immediate return on investment for any company looking to expand
